JOHN MANARD AND TOBY YOUNG IN CUSTODY

News Release #12

Friday, February 24, 2006

Lansing Correctional Facility escapee John Manard and the woman wanted in connection with aiding and abetting his escape, Toby Young, were taken into custody at approximately 8:40 p.m. Friday, February 24, 2006 by local, state and federal law enforcement authorities in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Lansing Correctional Facility Warden David McKune was notified by the United States Marshal's Service that Manard and Young were taken into custody following a brief vehicle chase. There were minor injuries reported during the capture, Toby Young was taken to a local hospital as a precautionary measure.

Manard and Young will be held in a jail in Tennessee until they are extradited to Kansas where he will be prosecuted for Aggravated Escape from Custody and she will be prosecuted for Aiding and Abetting Escape and Aiding a felon.

Additional details will be provided during a news conference which will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, February 25, 2006 in the Warden's conference room at Lansing Correctional Facility.
